Hugh Comstock, Clara Kellogg New Trustees

Succeed Shea and Graham Who Resign at Height of Controversy Over High School Sites

Hugh Comstock and Clara Kellogg were named yesterday by Mrs. Doris Watson, chairman of the Sunset school board, to fill out the terms of Shea and Graham, resigned. Comstock will fill out Graham's term until July 7, 1941, and Miss Kellogg, a former clerk of the board, consented to serve only for the four remaining months of Shea's term.

One candidate will be elected in June to serve for three years and two more will be appointed July 1 to serve for one year only.

The two resignations are to take effect today, and the resigning members left the nomination of new trustees entirely to Mrs. Watson "who has the legal responsibility and should be left in a position to select her own co-workers."

Frank N. Shea—who described himself as "the Big Bad Wolf in this situation"—and Victor D. Graham, Sunset school trustees, resigned unexpectedly Wednesday afternoon to climax the prolonged disagreement between the board and the electorate over the choice of a high school site.

Left as the only remaining member of the board is Mrs. Doris Watson, who backed the Hatton Fields site as against the Paradise Park site favored by Shea and Graham in a resolution passed by the board several weeks ago.

Popular feeling had revolted earlier in the week against Paradise Park as a high school site.

Shea said he was resigning in the interest of harmony and of the taxpayer. "My object is to stop the circulation of petitions which might decide upon any site before the board was in a position to negotiate for either on a real price basis," he said.

Both Mrs. Watson and Principal O. W. Bardarson expressed warm appreciation of the contribution to the district by Shea, who offered his assistance at any future time.

The Sunset district, it was pointed out by Shea prior to his resignation, must educate at least one high school grade in the coming year or the district as formed for high school education will lapse.

Before Shea resigned and Graham's resignation followed, the following events occurred:

Carmel citizens moved in on the Sunset elementary school board meeting Tuesday afternoon and turned it into a high school site discussion group.

Little satisfaction was derived by those present, however, from Frank Shea, clerk of the Sunset trustees, who, with Mrs. Doris Watson, was cross-examined on the matter of the proposed high school sites.

An attempt to obtain from Shea assurance that no site would be purchased without fair notice to the public resulted in only partial and qualified assurance.

Fifty citizens, among them Mayor Herbert Heron, Mrs. John Bathen, Mrs. Howard Clark, Mrs. Hal Garrot, Gene Watson, Clay Otto, Miss Clara Kellogg, Mrs. Markham Johnson, Mrs. M. J. Peterson, Ross Miller, Mrs. Perry Newberry, Mrs. Thelma Miller, W. K. Bas-

$2400 Two-way Police Radio Foreseen But Finances Present Major Hurdle

Recent tests made in Carmel by Alameda and San Jose police officers showed the possibilities for a two-way police radio and a bid of $2435 for a complete system to provide for sending and receiving between headquarters and patrol cars showed the reasonable nature of the price for such a system.

The only hitch is in the financial arrangements. The budget was prepared without foreseeing anything better than a one-way system for the police department in the coming year, but from a consideration of the prices, it became apparent to members of the council at Wednesday evening's meeting that the two-way system, whether entirely desirable or not, could be obtained at a feasible cost.

It was stated that the one-way system would cost $875 for the first year and $1000 for the second as considered in the budget.

Exact number of cars to be equipped was not mentioned, but would probably be for each member of the force, the value being that the home station could be notified of receipt of orders by the patrol car.

(Humorously, the newspapermen among themselves discussed a possibility of economy through use of a gun or rocket to be fired when a message was received so that the desk sergeant could put his head out of a window and listen or look for the flare).

Only step toward establishing a police radio communication system so far taken was the passing of a resolution to apply to the Federal Communications bureau for a temporary license. Such an application does not, however, bind the city to go ahead with such plans.

The radio survey made here was sponsored by the Northern California Peace Officers Communications Association to provide to communities such as Carmel the benefit of pioneering in this field. It was through Officer Robert Walton that the association sent men here to make the survey.

Artists Get City's $100

The Carmel Art Association can have $100 the city council decided at Wednesday evening's meeting, following discussion.

Mayor Herbert Heron emphasized that it had been hoped that $300 could be given the Art Association, which has provided Carmel with an unusually fine gallery and was greatly assisting Carmel in bringing here the sort of people who make Carmel what it is.

In consideration of thec ity's finances, however, the council set aside the amount of $100 to show its sympathetic attitude.

Sometime ago, Mayor Heron suggested a municipal tax to go to cultural advancement in this community.

Players Get New Board With Dick Masten Chief

The Carmel Players had a new deal and almost a new board of directors at last Sunday evening's general meeting which began the new spring play series.

Richard Masten, an ex-newspaperman and himself a playwright, heads the new board of directors composed of Lee Crowe, Gordon Knoles, Robert Bratt, L. E. Wormley, William France, Marion Todd, Ross Miller, Frank Hefling, Edith Frisbie and Marian Howes.

Byington Ford, as chairman, uttered an appeal for harmony and in general wished the Players well. He has been on the board for a long time and active with Franklin Dixon, Eugene Watson and others in the last year's highly successful activities.

Crowe, now a member of the board, has had a wide professional stage experience. Knoles recently did an unusually fine bit of acting in "Kind Lady", a success shared by Marion Todd, who played the central figure with professional expertness. Bratt, who has been a director for several months, has done outstanding work both with the Players and the Troupers of the Gold Coast. Knoles also stood out in melodramas revived by the Troupers.

France has been active with the stage crew and in handling the lights and specializes with the workshop group which prepares settings in miniature for actual productions. Miller, new to the board, has been a perennial on the stage and has achieved a reputation for every part that he has played here. Hefling has appeared in Carmel amateur theatricals since 1933.

Edith Frisbie and Marian Howes have been doing yeoman service with the Players, handling publicity and properties, respectively. Wormley, as chief of Adult Education, and in an advisory capacity, has given the Players invaluable assistance.

Chick McCarthy, who will direct "Pursuit of Happiness", the New England bundling play, is busy casting for the production which will take place in March, probably Thursday to Sunday, March 2-5.

The play calls for a dozen parts, three of them feminine. McCarthy has asked Lee Crowe, who played the lead on road companies in the East, to don once again the garb of the Hessian officer and brush up once more on the clipped Teutonic accent.

At a board meeting Wednesday night, Marion Howes was named secretary pro-tem and Marion Todd treasurer pro-tem. The board will meet again next Wednesday and a general meeting is scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 19, when a Green Room committee under William France will provide entertainment.

Loretta Young "Kentucky" Star

Loretta Young's appearance in "Kentucky," the 20th Century-Fox technicolor production showing at the Carmel theater, marks her 20th year in motion pictures!

At 25, the lovely young star is a veteran with one of the longest picture records in Hollywood—"Kentucky," in which she shares the romantic lead with Richard Greene, being her 49th movie!

Back in 1918, when Loretta's name was still Gretchen Young, she played a small part in a picture with Fanny Ward. That was the beginning; but between her first picture and her second, nine years elapsed. And when she got back into movies again it was largely by accident.

It was like this. Director Mervyn LeRoy called Polly Ann, Loretta's sister, for a part in "Naughty But Nice." But Polly was out of town, so Loretta went down to the studio instead, convinced LeRoy that she could play the part as well as her sister, and got the job.

From that time on, Loretta attracted so much attention that the studio awarded her a long-term contract, and few actresses of her years have been cast in so many big productions. She has appeared with or opposite practically every male star you can name, including Lon Chaney, Richard Barthelmess, Robert Young, Cary Grant, Gene Raymond, Ronald Colman, Charles Boyer, John Boles, Robert Taylor, Ralph Forbes, Ricardo Cortez, Conrad Nagel, Henry Wilcoxon, Clark Gable, Don Ameche and Tyrone Power.

She is the only one in the cast of "Kentucky" who has had previous experience before the technicolor cameras, having appeared in "Ramona" a couple of years ago.

"Kentucky" is also her second picture with Richard Greene, who shared star honors with her a few months ago in "Four Men and a Prayer."

Oregon initiated the first gasoline tax in 1919.

Theile to Speak for GOP Women

On Monday evening, Feb. 20, W. C. Theile of Salinas will address an open meeting of the Republican Women's Club of the Monterey Peninsula at the American Legion hall on Dolores street at 8 o'clock.

Theile's subject will be "Our Possessions and Their Retention" and will stress the fine ideals and aims that have been handed down to all Americans as one of their most prized possessions, rather than the material wealth and power of this country.

This meeting is being held owing to the many requests that have been received to have Theile repeat his address and it is hoped that the larger hall of the Legion Club will make it possible for every one to hear him. The regular monthly meeting of the club has been postponed from Feb. 13 to Feb. 20 so that the entire membership may attend.

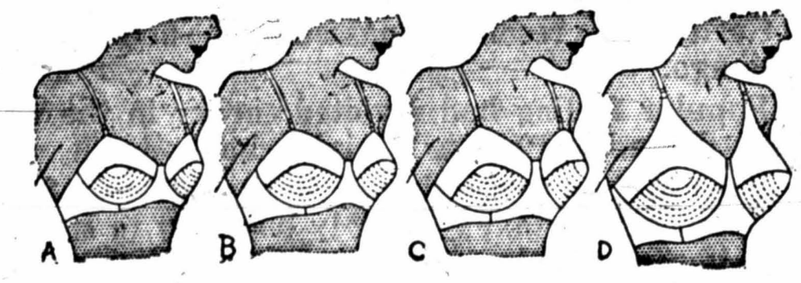

The legislature is considering a bill to tax "chain farms."

USE OF LITERATURE IN LIFE TOLD WOMAN'S CLUB BY GALE

Members of the Carmel Woman's Club chatted at small tables while they ate lunch last Monday at Pine Inn. Following the luncheon they turned to more serious subjects and adjourned to the meeting hall for a talk by Roy J. Gale of the Sunset school staff. Mr. Gale chose as his subject "Building a Personal Philosophy." The method he chose to illustrate was through reading.

Gale believes in the saying of Granville Hicks that there are things without which we can exist but without out which there is little reason for existence, and one of these is reading.

Of authors we like to read there are various things demanded. We may say make us laugh or shudder, be sympathetic or amused, console us or make us sad, make us think or dream and above all give us something to chew.

Among the authors who move us to merriment Gale chose to mention Stephen Leacock, Mark Twain and Dorothy Parker. He read some delightful small poems by the last author and the laughter of the audience proved his statement.

Continuing with those authors who amuse he turned to the Victorian era over which hung the dictum of the Queen herself, "We are not amused." So the literary giants of that time such as Thackeray and Dickens sought to amuse, but always within the bounds of good taste. Those authors, such as Rudyard Kipling, who overstepped this boundary ever so lightly, were punished and so Kipling's chance line about "the Widow of Windsor" cost him the poet laureateship.

Shudder many of us must and here comes detective and mystery fiction and on a higher plane H. H. Munro (Saki). Of Saki, Gale had only praise, as he presents in his writing a sense of reality and of making his readers feel actually present which is unrivalled. Hugh Walpole was also quoted in this category along with Conan Doyle and Tennyson with his poem "Mizpah."

Sympathy was aroused in us by Kipling in poems such as that dealing with the under skin qualities of the Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady. Elizabeth Barrett Browning plays on our sympathy as also does Vachell Lindsay.

For consolation in literature nothing can equal the Bible, feels Gale. Both the Old and New Testament are full of beautiful passages giving us balm in time of need and faith to face our difficulties in life.

Outstanding among the writers who evoke us to sadness are Thomas Bayley Aldrich and Edgar Lee Masters in his "Spoon River Anthology." Thought is provoked by Edna St. Vincent Millay, and to dream we have such stories as the life of Lincoln written for us to read.

Acceptance of many things in life comes to us through our reading. Acceptance of ourselves is facilitated by Henry Van Dyck and the late Will Rogers. Acceptance of others, of life, of faith, God and our place in the world as Americans, all these are aroused and cultivated within us through the books we read.

Through the various emotions aroused by the several classes of literature that Gale mentioned and our adjustment to life by means of "chewing" the books we read with their varied characters, problems and conclusions we, too, come to a conclusion by our own personal vicissitudes. We learn to weigh personal experiences, analyze people and experiences, racial characteristics and evaluate certain things in life.

This conclusion forms our philosophy of living and we have attained it through literature or reading.

Mrs. Ross C. Miller presided at the meeting and introduced and thanked Mr. Gale for his talk. Previous to his speech Mrs. Miller mentioned the San Carlos Music Society and its value to the community, the present bright outlook of the Carmel Players and also the coming play readings through March, April and May to be given by Emma Knox and Baldwin McGaw.

FIREMEN'S BENEFIT TOMORROW NIGHT PROMISES ABLE TALENT

Preparations for a firemen's benefit show without parallel today are about completed for tomorrow evening's presentation of three one-act plays and vaudeville acts at Sunset auditorium.

The three plays, one "The King's Toothache" to be given by Sunset pupils, Rem Remsen's "Rented Ranch" and George S. Kaufman's "The Still Alarm," both by the Carmel Players, are only part of the first rate entertainment.

Proceeds of the show will go toward providing new uniforms for the firemen so that they may be well outfitted for the state convention to be held on the peninsula this spring and at which Paul Mercurio, of the Carmel department, is scheduled to be elected president.

An unusual feature will be the closing number, which will be Zoe Elliott's "The Long, Long Trail", led by the composer, who will be at the piano.

Featured also on the program will be songs by Noel Sullivan, baritone.

Those who will take part in the benefit follow

Attractive Program Is Scheduled For New Music Society Debut

The old adage, "Two minds with a single thought," seems to apply to the musical circles of San Francisco and Carmel alike with "A Night in Italy" presentation scheduled during the early part of February in both places.

Those who have derived pleasure on the numerous occasions when Noel Sullivan's rich basso presented sacred and secular music to peninsula audiences so beautifully, will be delighted to learn that on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 20-21, at Crespi hall, they will have the privilege of hearing his fine voice in a dramatic presentation of thearia "Infelice" from the opera "Ernani."

Angela DeMario Reilly, president of the San Carlos Music Society and director of its initial presentation, has chosen the aria, "Voi lo Sapete", from Cavelleria Rusticana by Mascagni and in addition will sing several of the more popular Italian numbers, with the assistance of the Carmel Mission choir, who have earned a splendid reputation among church-goers. Its members are Marigold Gulick, Miriam Castagna, Frances Passailaique, Ursula Ramos, Lucille Wirth, Dorothy Wirth, Margaret Konarsky, Virginia Hale, Anna Royka, Carl Bensberg, George Ramos, Sam Miller, Mr. Booker, and George Clague. Also assisting in the chorus will be Robert Edgren of Pacific Grove.

To assist in the spirit of revelry in the fiesta scene of "A Night in Italy" will be four accordianists, all of whom have earned recognition for their splendid playing. Rose Siino, Raymond Claris, Louis Machado and Martin Artellan will each present a solo number and support some of the numbers, including the chorus.

Gay and spirited Italian dancing will delight the audience when Italian children, pupils in the Italian language of Jesusa Guidi Fremont, 12 in number, will do the famous and intricate Tarantella while the lovely and charming Madeleine McDonogh and several pupils of June Delight will present appropriate dance specialties.

Vocalists whose voices are heard frequently in solo numbers at Carmel Mission and who will take part on this gala occasion are Carl Bensberg whose "O Sole Mio" is sung very feelingly to Lucille Wirth, while the gay favorite "Il Bacio" will be sung by Anna Royka.

The organization is fortunate in having Mrs. Esther Young, the well-known accompanist and choir director from Salinas at the piano for the operatic arias.

Raymond Claris, in addition to an accordian solo, will accompany all vocal numbers except the arias.

Tickets will be available in a few days and Father O'Connell of the Carmel Mission, or the organization's officers, Angela Reilly, Noel Sullivan or Carl Bensberg can supply further information.

MRS. ZELDA FRANK DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Zelda C. Frank, 48, died last Friday at her Villa del Monte residence after a lingering illness. A native of Hollister, she had lived on the peninsula for 30 years. She leaves her husband, Charles Frank of Carmel; and two sisters, Mrs. Lois Johnson and Mrs. Mildred Scott of Berkeley.

Christian Science

"Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord." These words from Isaiah comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, Feb. 12, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Soul." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "I love the Lord, because he hath heard my voice and my supplications . . . I will walk before the Lord in the land of the living" (Ps. 116: 1, 9).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "Immortality, exempt from age or decay, has a glory of its own — the radiance of Soul. Immortal men and women are models of spiritual sense, drawn by perfect Mind and reflecting those higher conceptions of loveliness which transcend all material sense" (p. 247).

Baritone Concert Set for Thursday

George H. Willis, concert baritone, who is to present a vocal recital in Sunset School Auditorium on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 16 at 8 o'clock, is a well known and popular southern California singer.

Besides his wide experience as a concert artist, Willis has appeared frequently over the Columbia chain. He also sang for two seasons with the Los Angeles grand opera company, appearing in "Faust" and "Traviata" with Rathberg, Tibbet, Martinelli, Crooks, Pinza and others.

Willis' recital promises to be a real treat for Carmel music lovers. The concert is open to the general public and there is no admission charge whatsoever.

Lionel Belmore Spans Stage History from Ellen Terry and Henry Irving to Present-day Hollywood

By MARJORY LLOYD

Lionel Belmore and I found we had something in common: We were both born in England and both in the garden of England, except that this is open to argument, as both counties, my Kent and his Surrey, have been bitterly contesting the honor for years.

We were at the golden wedding reception for Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lee when we discovered this. I had asked who was the big cheerful man with the amazing eyebrows over the dancing eyes. I found out he was Lionel Belmore, veteran stage and screen actor, who started his career as a prop boy along with those immortals, Ellen Terry and Henry Irving.

In no time after meeting him I found myself in a small group of his friends where reminiscences were flying.

Mrs. Trev. Shand of Carmel had acted with him in New York and they talked of the days when they were mostly broke and open for an engagement, except for Lionel who found his hungry friends waiting for him when he returned to his one-room apartment with the bed and the stove hidden behind screens.

Lionel brought home brussel sprouts and potatoes and some kind of meat and then everyone set to work. Sometimes sharing potatoes became an exact science, but they all were fed and afterwards great was the talk as they stretched on the floor in the glow from the gas fire.

Thinking of those happy days, Lionel Belmore told us of a recent experience. It seems there is a group in Hollywood composed of radio artists called the "Rogues and Vagabonds." A short time ago Mr. Belmore was asked to be their guest of honor and after a flowery introduction by the chairman found he was expected to tell some of his experiences.

He rapidly thought over his many adventures and picked out one. "Have any of you ever slept with an elephant?" he demanded. There was much laughter, but no one could match that exploit.

It seems the Belmore family, who were all actors in England, had had a particularly unremunerative season and the summer found them gathered together but with no money, so they turned to the advertising columns with adventure beckoning a chancey hand.

Lionel found an advertisement for a drummer boy with a circus in France. He had answered many other ads but this was the only one that answered him.

"Bring your effects and meet me in Paris," read the telegram. Paris is across the Channel from England and what were his effects? Lionel found out they consisted of a big drum, a little drum and the side noises along with sticks to produce the said noises.

So he borrowed five pounds, picked up his drums and set out.

"I have crossed the Atlantic 36 times," he laughingly told us, "and never been seasick; but that crossing of the English Channel was nearly the end of me. I was ill and the wind blew the wrong way and it was rough and to top it all I had my effects tied around my neck."

I wish you could have seen the facial expressions as this part of the journey was told.

However, in spite of wind, weather and effects, Belmore found himself in Calais at last and finally in Paris.

He joined the circus and a grand old circus it was. They travelled in wagons up and down the land, always one jump ahead of the sheriff as the lovely new tent had never been paid for. The wagons were complete little houses and good food, such as chickens and French bread, was cheap and finest of all it was champagne country they were touring. Gay was the life and merry, and who cared about the sheriff and being a drummer and having to double as a French clown without the effects and even—sleeping with the elephant!

That last event only occurred once—because elephants turn over in their sleep and young Lionel was having too gay a time to want to be a pancake. One night the others had all gone to the cafe in the village but Lionel stayed with the wagons. Sleepy and cold, he wandered in with the elephant to be out of the wind and rain. He spoke to her and she answered in elephant fashion and he lay down in her lee. Blissfully, he slept until he was roughly awakened by the trainer.

"Don't you know elephants always roll over in their sleep?" he shouted and up jumped Lionel Belmore, albeit a little drowsy. Thinking it over, he feels that it was only the sagacity of the animal that saved him. She knew he was there as he had spoken to her and so refrained from her usual languorous roll.

It was good that she did, for young Lionel grew up to grace the stage, both in America and England, and then Hollywood and the films and to lead a life full of fun and adventure which have left him with thousands of fond friends and a face and a figure that makes those who know him love him. What a jolly Falstaff he is! Curly, white hair, round tummy, hearty laugh and all.

Come again to Carmel, Lionel Belmore! Don't wait for another golden wedding of old friends. You know, you said Carmel was unique, a bit of all parts of the world living together in harmony. "Carmel," you said, "does not go to the world; the world comes to Carmel."

RIGHT now we'd like to point out that with the first feel of spring in the air, there's going to be another scramble to get these beautiful new Buicks.

There's going to be a rush to get behind this great car's lively Dynaflash straight-eight power plant, to take in the budding countryside from behind its new wide-paned windows.

There'll be a sudden hurry to trade in cars that have begun to pass their prime, and step out in the cushioned smoothness of Bui-Coil Springing's full-float ride.

No question about that, not when you recall last fall, when we had to sell cars on a five and six week delivery basis.

On the other hand, you can get rid of a lot of grief by trading an old car now. Get rid of weak batteries, slick tires, slow-starting engines, brakes that may be needing a relining job soon.

You'll get a car in this well-made, well-mannered, well-groomed new Buick that'll take the rest of the winter right in stride, and just be warmed up when spring comes.

You'll get it at prices lower than a year ago, lower than you'd expect, lower even than on some sixes.

You'll get a better allowance on the car you're now driving—and like as not avoid some heavy servicing bills.

So why wait until sometime "in the spring"? Shop early for your Buick, the most satisfying car you ever drove—shop wisely and avoid the rush!

ABLEST OF THE EIGHTS is this mighty Buick Dynaflash Valve-in-Head Straight-Eight, with a cyclone in each cylinder to squeeze full power from every drop of fuel.

"Better buy Buick—NOW!"

THE HIGH SCHOOL THIS WEEK

A Preamble — An Explanation

It isn't going to be an easy job to find two people to take the places of Frank N. Shea and Victor Graham as trustees of the grammar school. Anybody who takes on the job is going to step into a hard and tedious position and devote gratis most of his time. But in this community there are many people who are willing to serve on this board to bring to a successful conclusion the long uphill struggle. There must be only one conclusion—a proper high school for Carmel.

Perhaps, however, resignation is the solution to the present untenable position in which the Sunset trustees and the electors of the district found themselves when it became apparent that the trustees were not going to listen to the wishes of the voters, who in turn were going to act independently.

Much of the foregoing can be explained by the following editorial, written before Shea and Graham resigned, but is being printed in explanation of the reason for the circulation of petitions and the actions of an aroused citizenry.

* * * *

The large and representative gathering which attended the school board meeting Tuesday afternoon was not a "little pressure group", as Frank Shea called them. They were about fifty of the people who have worked tirelessly during the past number of months for a high school in Carmel, getting petitions signed, working to put over the bond issue and attending the innumerable details connected with the task.

At this meeting all were surprised at the attitude adopted by Frank Shea, who did most of the talking. It is completely non-understandable how a representative of the people can adopt such an uncompromising stand. Mr. Shea is refusing to consider any proposition other than Paradise Park as the site of the high school, on the grounds that Dr. Bursch would okeh no other site. He has interpreted the school code as giving Dr. Bursch, who is head of the state school housing department, carte blanche right to veto or approve school sites. The fact that everybody present, including a lawyer, heard the code read and interpreted it otherwise, made not a whit of difference. Mr. Shea disregarded the testimony of highway engineering experts and stood only on the verbal word of the man of his own choice.

We wondered how it was that Mr. Shea was the man to do all the talking and who had the information concerning school sites when he is only one of three members of a school board, but learned later that he was official spokesman for the board.

Victor Graham said nothing, but it is understood that he concurs with Mr. Shea. The president of the board, Mrs. Doris Watson, however, emphatically stated that she did not agree at all. One very important fact came to light: Dr. Bursch, although he has been set up as the authrity upon which the majority of the school board is acting, has never reported officially to the board itself and has never put any of his recommendations in writing. He has only told Mr. Shea in conversation and by telephone what he thinks. It is Mr. Shea who reported to the board and any interpretation of Bursch's statements are Mr. Shea's own, and not those of the school board.

Frank Shea says that there can be no election upon which site to purchase for a school, as only Paradise Park has been approved, and Hatton Fields is ineligible because Dr. Bursch did not okeh it. (But if there has been no report to the board concerning any site, then obviously none has been approved, all of which puts Hatton Fields site in the same class as Paradise Park, and we can vote on either of them.)

Mr. Shea interprets the school code as saying that Carmel can't go against Dr. Bursch's wishes in the matter, but if there is any authority higher than the will of the majority of the voters, we have yet to hear about it.

However the solution of obtaining Dr. Bursch's approval on sites might be obtained through Miss Clara Kellogg's level-headed suggestion that a committee be appointed to go into the matter very thoroughly and then meet with Dr. Bursch to present to him their findings and recommendations.. Dr. Bursch might be reluctant to meet with an unofficial group but he certainly would not hesitate, it is thought, to be present at a school trustee meeting where the committee and interested citizens are present.

However, Frank Shea, although agreeing to the committee idea, said he would not allow the committee to meet with Dr. Bursch and the school board in anything but an informal gathering. He softened the "his allowing" part by adding "unless the other two members of the board voted for it. Graham did not commit himself. Mrs. Watson, on the other hand, showed the fine reasonable attitude that one would expect. In other words, although the committee will be acting on behalf of the taxpayers, Mr. Shea is not going to let it have any official distinction if he can prevent it.

Meanwhile petitions are being signed by heads of households asking that an electors' meeting be called, at which those present can vote upon a site for the high school. These petitions, when completed, and there is no doubt they will be, will prove to Mr. Shea and Mr. Graham that over 51 per cent of the voters of Carmel differ with them, because, if the town favored purchase of Paradise, there would be no question of petitions. It is very important that the sentiments of the town be canvassed, as neither Mr. Shea or Mr. Graham believe or want to believe that they are very much in the minority. Also in a matter as important as this, it is vital that a majority vote should determine the solution.

In answering questions from the floor on Tuesday, Mr. Shea constantly spoke of the experts he has consulted in this matter, but beyond referring to Dr. Bursch no other expert's name appeared except that of Lester Gibson, head of the highway department in this area, whose report to the interested parties bringing him to Carmel was disregarded by Mr. Shea, who said that the highway man was not brought here by him and that Mr. Gibson's opinions had no bearing on the case. Incidentally, Mr. Gibson had pointed out that the traffic hazard at Ocean and Carpenter streets, Paradise Park's main intersection, was far greater than that of the highway. Mr. Gibson's count showed that there are four and a quarter times the number of cars passing that point as there are on the highway south of Ocean avenue. Besides, it is only in the summer, when the school is closed that there is any real traffic on the highway. It is this report that Mr. Shea chose to overlook.

It is to be hoped that nothing regarding the purchase of sites by the elementary school board is done until Carmel becomes a high school district in July. It is then that we will have a high school board of trustees. Although no one has been appointed as yet to this post, there is not an individual in Carmel who can help but realize the temper of the people.

TO THE "PACK RAT"

(Neotoma Albigula)

I had not known the Phoenicians, in their time
Ventured as far to eastward as this clime.
They were great traders; and trade takes one far.
Perhaps their teaching made you what you are.
Seeing their draggled boat about to sink,
You swam for shore; and ever since, I think,
Practiced on these brown headlands, high and bare
Tricks the drowned sailors taught you otherwhere.
No modern scale of values does for you.
No Board of Trade puts price on what you do.
You work all night; I, in the morning find
The strangest scraps that you have left behind.
My watch is gone; a bottle top or two
And a white pebble hides within my shoe.
A bit of glass, a polished wave-worn stick
Dragged through the summer dust, where weeds grow thick.
I find the kitchen spoon, you took last spring
Lies at my door, Repentance' offering.
You work and slave; yet when your labor's done,
For all your pains, what is it you have won?
Not food, your aim, nor pleasure for your wife
Just to collect and trade, you spend your life.
You're pretty; but you ARE a silly ass.
Go, leave my house. Be careful as you pass
And do not take my little Swedish jug
And hide it down beneath the Persian rug.

—M. E. B.

BRIDGE BUILDER

A speck to strain the eye, I have no keys
To enter his lone eyry where, unstirred,
His life a daily forfeit, between two seas,
He holds his poise, yet is not fish nor bird.

Webbed in his tower, no seagull takes his dare;
His heart must be a hammer in the sky,
And far below the sea is everywhere,
If his web breaks he cannot swim or fly.
Hard as the tempered bars this pigmy rears,
Steel cords his hand, is planted in his heel,
A gymnast on a catwalk, spanning piers,
A juggler, palming ingots of hot steel.
While, dizzily, I see him keep his head,
He, ploddingly, works for his meat and bread.

—Alex R. Schmidt.

STORM-NATURE

The storm will pass; you cannot hold a gale—
Its very fury prophesies its end.
All human power to fetter it must fail
And by resistance, fiercer passion lend.

You cannot cramp the wind behind a gate
Or modify its temper to the hour . . .
A storm's a storm! It needs to devastate;
To wreck and ravage; verify its power.

But violence is doomed; for to endure,
The way must lead into a realm that lies
Untouched by might or motion; so secure
In peace, that seasons cannot change its skies.

In peace, that seasons cannot change its skies.
Who looks within the tempest may divine
How at the heart of struggle lies the shrine.

COAST GUARD STATION NEEDED

The recent heroic rescue of two Japanese fishermen down the coast at Bixby Landing revives that oft-heard appeal for a Coast Guard station on this part of the coast.

Remember that there is no Coast Guard vessel or crew to assist nearer than San Francisco, 88 nautical miles from Point Pinos, Pacific Grove, and that Monterey has a larger fleet of small boats and vessels plying these waters throughout the year than any port in California north of San Pedro with the single exception of San Francisco.

When Mrs. Frieda Sharpe tried to call for assistance for the beleaguered boat and its crew, there was no one officially responsible to whom she could appeal. The lighthouse at Point Sur, she told us, had no radio with which to communicate to a passing fishing vessel, and Monterey had no Coast Guard. Her message went to Captain Ralph Classic of the Fish and Game Commission and he saw to it that aid was sent. Officially, Captain Classic had no responsibility and neither had anyone else nearer than San Francisco.

Perhaps, if the appeal for a Coast Guard station on this peninsula is continued long and loud, we may someday have the protection that our boatmen have every right to demand, whether they be yachtsmen who use Stillwater Cove at Pebble Beach as their base, or fishermen who go out of the port of Monterey.

WELCOME THE ART GALLERY

With the hanging of the February show, the new art gallery of the Carmel Art Association is officially open to the public. Although some of the lighting facilities are not quite complete, the new gallery is well worth seeing, and those who visit it will see one of the best galleries on this coast.

Clay Otto, the builder, is to be congratulated for his excellent plans and direction of the building, in which he had to exercise every economy in order to work on a stringently limited budget, and, in spite of this terrific hazard, has obtained really fine results for the Carmel Art Association.

Everyone who contributed to the success of the building is also to be congratulated, whether they contributed in money, in building materials, in time as executives or as workmen, to what has proved to be truly a community undertaking. It has often been said that nothing can be done cooperatively in Carmel and succeed. To contradict this statement and show that Carmelites can and will cooperate and cooperate successfully, is the new gallery. Perhaps there have been minor disagreements over various details since the gallery was first planned, but they never were allowed to flare up into a village pillow fight and for this also, the members of the Carmel Art Association are to be congratulated.

Altogether, we feel that Carmel has gained something worth far more than the actual cash value of the new gallery on north Dolores street. It has gained a monument to what Carmelites can do when they get down to business and plan with both head and heart.

Whitman Gains Draw in Chess

Paul Whitman got a draw with the old chess master, I. A. Horowitz, in the round table tournament at Pine Inn last Saturday evening, and, had he seen what Horowitz saw, he might have had a win.

Whitman made the best showing of any of the 31 Carmel, Salinas and Santa Cruz players participating. He played black to Horowitz, who used a Vienna opening.

Those who played against Horowitz, and lost, were: John Bathen, Gustav De Packh, Tom Work, Jr., C. N. Palmer, C. Frisbie, R. C. Howes, Herman Crossman, H. Crane, A. G. Hanke, V. E. Soaren, Alex Gibson, Paul Dougherty, W. Davey, Lloyd Tevis, Keith Evans, Mrs. E. K. Hillman, Miss G. Gada, Mrs. A. Davey, all of Carmel;

Estonia Sends Her Traditonal Music

The Land of Songs and Legends has come to Treasure Island and will remain in all its quaintness throughout the 288 days of the California World's Fair.

In an historic village concession on Treasure Island's romantic Gayway, the Estonian Cultural Committee of New York will bring the flavorsome taste of the Republic of Estonia to the Exposition.

Dr. Elizabeth Judas, noted woman educator of Estonia and America, said the picture of Estonia, past and present, will be given millions of fair goers in the village. Some of the buildings will be replicas of medieval structures. Others will be characteristic of the Republic today.

Estonian foods will be served exclusively in a rustic cafe which will seat 500. Music, folk dances and songs and legends will be dramatized daily in a novel little public square.

"Music is really a racial cult of the Estonians which has kept this nation immune from modernistic phonetic maladies such as syncopation, jazz, swing, sophistications and the like," said Dr. Judas.

"The music will be the same as it was generations ago."

Scouts Celebrating Big Birthday Week

Local cub packs, Boy Scout troops, and senior Scout groups joined other Scout units throughout the nation in celebrating Boy Scout week, which ends Feb. 14, according to Sheldon L. Gilmer, president of the local Monterey bay area Boy Scout council.

The theme of the 29th birthday of the Scout organization is "Scouting carries on American ideals," and the program is suggestive of "Scout citizenship in action." The program throughout the nation is similar, and local troops will hold their own special events.

During the entire month of February, and especially for Boy Scout week, local troops throughout the council area, Monterey, San Benito, and Santa Cruz counties, are holding troop courts of honor. Badges and awards will be presented at these ceremonies. This is the only month during the entire year when troops may hold individual courts of honor, other courts during the year being held on a council or district basis, with several troops combining.

Friday is Scout brotherhood day; Saturday, Scout service day, Sunday, Scout reverence day; Monday, Scout dedication day, and Tuesday, Scout fun day.

More than 8,000,000 boys have been Scouts during the 29 years of Scouting in America, and today a million and a quarter men and boys, now active, many in this community, will participate in the annual birthday celebrations.

Amidst a profusion of golden flowers and with golden shafts of sunlight intermittently shining through the long windows, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Lee received the congratulations of their friends on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary on Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Lee were assisted in receiving by their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Koepp of Carmel and their sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Lee of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland V. Lee, Beverly Hills, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Lee, Hollywood. All the members of the Lee family including the grandchildren were present, except for Patricia Lee Reynolds, and her small son, who is Mr. and Mrs. Lee's only greatgrandchild. Besides the immediate family, a niece, Mrs. Richard H. Tillman of Baltimore, Md., and Mrs. William Worthington, mother of Mrs. Rowland Lee, made the trip to Carmel on this notable occasion. Mrs. Tillman had been present at the wedding in Salina, Kans.

The guests wrote their names in a book made for the anniversary by Guy Koepp. The cover of wood was studded with gold nails and bound in leather and fittingly lined with gold.

A huge bowl of golden roses was placed in the center of the refreshment table and on either side of the roses were candelabra containing gold tapers. The white wedding cakes, decorated with gold leaves, were surrounded with the same roses as in the centerpiece, but interspersed with gardenias. Daffodils, acacia and other spring flowers placed about the reception room carried out the golden color scheme.

The Bach Society will present Ruth Finley (above), young piano virtuosa, in a concert in the Copper Cup Room of Hotel Del Monte Sunday Eve.

Mrs. Lee was beautifully gowned in black transparent velvet with yoke and sleeve inserts of ecru lace, and received her guests before a table laden with floral gifts from her numerous friends. The reception was planned and given for Mr. and Mrs. Lee by their children and was held in the reception room of La Ribera Hotel.

The grandchildren present were Laura-Lee Koepp, Flora-Lee Koepp, Frances Marie Koepp, Donald William Koepp, and Cynthia Lee. Among those who called during the afternoon to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Lee on their 50 years of married life and to meet their talented and pleasant family were Mrs. L. McMorris Purdy, Lionel Belmore of Hollywood, Mrs. Carol Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Canoles, Mrs. Evelyn Zaches Londahl, W. M. O'Donnell, Harriet E. Pierce, Helen M. Pierce, Dr. Florence A. Don has just finished up his lecture tours for the year and finished them up with a very bad cold which had him in the hospital in his old home town, Lawton, Okla. Elsa Maxwell Gives Her Party at Lodge Sunday

Few things can be said with any certainty about Elsa Maxwell, America's greatest party giver, who is coming to Del Monte Lodge on Sunday evening.

But one thing is sure, she will prove an interesting and entertaining visitor.

What the girl from Keokuk, Iowa, who grew up to become one of international society's biggest arbiters will have to say is something that time alone will tell.

Accordingly, Kit Whitman, who is sponsoring Miss Maxwell's appearance, has announced that it will be "a surprise party," and that Elsa will speak on "Anything at All."

Preparations for Miss Maxwell's arrival include a dinner to be held at Del Monte Lodge preceding her talk and a dance afterwards to the music of Freddie Nagel and his orchestra.

That, too, is certain.

But whether Miss Maxwell will discuss her barnyard party which was New York's most talked of party in years or the ludicrous antics of a social climber who tried to crash the gates of the "400" with ivory and gold telephones is another matter.

There is little doubt, however, that Miss Maxwell's talk will be an amusing one. For, in a recent interview she said:

"The very idea of inviting people to a party because they happen to be members of the Union and the Knickerbocker would strike the ambitious 1939 hostess as a thoroughly lunatic notion.

"She wants to invite 'the amusing people'—whatever the term may imply.

"What is amusing to me may be extremely dull to Mrs. Vanderbilt, and vice versa. Who is there today to decide whether Mr. X is amusing or not? 'Nobody' seems to be the only logical answer, which fact complicates the task of the ambitious social climber no end."

In accepting the invitation to appear at the "Surprise Party" at Del Monte Lodge Miss Maxwell remarked, "I just know it's going to be loads of fun."

Loretta Young and Richard Greene share the romantic leads in "Kentucky", a technicolor production of 20th Century-Fox playing at the Carmel Theater.

Gold Coasters Plan Two Plays

Two plays to be given in the First Theater soon are Dan Totheroh's "Moor Born," a drama of the Bronte family, and "Uncle Tom's Cabin," traditional American melodrama.

The Troupers of the Gold Coast are beginning rehearsals for "Moor Born," which will be directed by Mario Ramirez, Argentinian director with the Teatro Nacional at Buenos Aires and more recently producer of "Winterset", "Bella Donna" and "Bury the Dead" for the Writers' Club in Hollywood.

Noel Sullivan will play the role of Rev. Patrick Bronte, the father. Emily Bronte will be played by Connie Clampett Bell; Charlotte by Willa May McIntosh, and Anne by Flavia Flavin.

Gordon Knoles, who scored such a success with the male lead in "Kind Lady", has been cast for the part of Branwell, the other male role.

The Bronte play is one which will provide occasion for period costume and provides a historic theme for the old theater. Connie Bell, during her recent visit to England, went to see the Bronte home in the moors of Yorkshire and brought back a desire to have the strange story of the Brontes presented in the local theater.

Dan Totheroh, the author, will be here for the production, now scheduled for March 17.

For the Easter holidays, running four evenings except that of Good Friday, "Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be given again, rather than "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which will be given later. The Troupers will concentrate under Lloyd Weer in preparing a newer and brighter olio, in spite of the tremendous success of the most recent olio given with "Ten Nights."

'Anthony Adverse' Plays at Filmarte

Hervey Allen's monumental literary classic, "Anthony Adverse", brought to the screen with all its wealth of color and dramatic fire, is to be shown this week-end at the Filmarte theater, starting tonight and continuing its run until Sunday.

Fredric March, who proved himself a dashing hero in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street", "Smilin' Through", "Dark Angel" and many other big productions, has the title role.

The leading feminine part is played by Olivia de Havilland, Los Gatos girl, who startled the film world by her exceptional performance in "A Midsummer Nights Dream" and "Captain Blood."

The colorul and picturesque backgrounds are set in five countries on three continents. The scenes open in France, sweep through the Swiss and Italian Alps to the quaint city of Leghorn, Italy, then to Havana, on to Africa and the great slave marts of other days, back to Italy and again to France to the court of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The presentations of portions of two operas adds to the magnificence of the production. Number one was written especially for the picture by Aldo Franchetti, former conductor of the Chicago Opera Company. The second is the famous "L'Orfeo", and is produced on a mammoth scale in a replica of the Theatre de La Opera of Paris.

$97,483 Bid for Sewage Disposal Plant In River

The treatment and sewage disposal plant on the "island" site on Carmel river is going to cost $97,483.85, of which the Public Works Administration will pay its 45 per cent—and it might have cost $123,004.80, the highest bid entered for the sanitary district meeting last Friday evening.

F. C. Stolte Company of Pacific Grove was the low bidder against five rival concerns from all over the state.

The Hatton Fields sewer job, for the area north of Ocean avenue, was awarded on a bid of $12,658 to W. J. Tobin company of Oakland. Three bids were entered for this job.

Just what the sanitary district will be assessed to pay its 55 per cent share of the plant cost will not be determined until the final costs are known. The PWA grant amounts to a little more than $47,000 on the basis of a cost of $105,000.

The contract for the sewage disposal plant includes the building of connecting lines and two underground pumping plants.

Other figures for the bids were:

Plant: Bennett and Taylor, Los Angeles, $193,223.43; Contracting Engineers Company, Los Angeles, $106,682.53; Union Paving, $109,235.40; Fred J. Early, San Francisco, $117,386.93; Heuser and Garnett, Glendale, $123,003.80.

Hatton Fields: Union Paving, $14,830; Contracting Engineers, $19,472.

About 30 contractors, bonding company agents and equipment manufacturers were among those present for the opening of bids.

The Sanitary board awarded the contract to Stolte at Wednesday's meeting, having had PWA acceptance.

sett, Ranald Cockburn and Capt. J. Shelburn Robison, all of whom spoke, attended the meeting.

Opposition to the Paradise Park site was obvious and general expression in favor of the Hatton Fields site was expressed. Shea, however, reiterated his arguments backing up his and Graham's choice of Paradise Park by basing most of his argument upon the recommendation of Dr. Charles Bursch, state school housing expert, made directly to Shea and not to the board, as Shea admitted.

Shea refused to give outright assurance against any purchase without notice to Sunset district electors "in the event of an unforeseen occurrence."

The resignations, however, may make such a committee unnecessary.

Shea gave a hint of his coming resignation when he said on Tuesday: "I will not even be on the next board."

Parent-Teachers to Hear Dr. Bissel

The February meeting of the Sunset School Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the school library on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The meeting promises to be especially interesting as Dr. Dwight M. Bissel, public health officer, has been secured to speak on the "Responsibility of the Public School to the Public Health Program."

The association is anxious to point out that persons interested, even though not members of the group, are always welcomed at the meetings.

Don't Spare Rod, Says FBI Agent

Parents can have a profound influence over the future of crime in America by not sparing the rod, according to N. J. L. Pieper, chief of the San Francisco field division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Pieper, one of the leading G-men in the country and one-time right-hand man to Edgar Hoover in Washington, declared that discipline in in the home was an important factor in building up character, lack of which was largely responsible for the amazing growth of crime in this country.

America's parents, as much those at the top of the social and economic scale as those at the bottom, were responsible for the large number of youthful criminals. And, Pieper emphasized, it was not necessarily the slums, but just as much the fair-faced small towns that bred these criminals.

The lecture, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, was given before 120 persons at the American Legion clubhouse. Mrs. Ray Moore, president, occupied the chair. Pieper was brought to Carmel to speak through arrangements made by Frederick R. Bechdolt, commissioner of police.

14 Proposed City Hall Plans Seen

Carmel has a new game, something like "Button, button—who's got the button?"

Only it's called "City hall, city hall—where are we going to have a city hall?"

After a deluge of petitions and elections, Carmel now has about all the committees it can man, what with schools and city halls.

On Wednesday the city hall committee went on tour, the grand tour, and caused many a citizen to turn and watch as they went from site to site.

Altogether 14 possible city hall arrangements were considered by the committee which spent most of its time on Sixth avenue, looking over the Devendorf-Parker, Gates, de Sabla and Goold locations.

They visited also the White lots on Junipero and Mission at Seventh, El Paseo and White Cedars, and the Culbertson place on Lincoln.

They meet again Monday evening at 8 o'clock. There may be a recommendation to the council next Wednesday at 5:00, at which time that body meets again.

The Sunkist trademark is being registered in New Zealand.

Tree, Bush, Shrub Protection Given

No tree, bush, shrub or any other living thing except acacias may be disturbed on city property, streets and parks, without permission of the city council, according to a resolution read at Wednesday night's council meeting.

For such permission, the application must be accompanied by $5 to be used for replanting on any other place on city property and also a deposit to cover the cost of removal, the unused balance to be returned.

BUSINESS GROUP MEETS TO HEAR ABOUT FAIR

Harold Davis, of the Exposition lecture division, will tell the Carmel Business Association the story of the World Fair at tonight's meeting at Pine Inn at 8 o'clock. Guests are welcome.
